

FRIENDSHIP.

Friendship, A connection that is unbreakable. Is it important to have similar characters between the two or more friends? In my opinion, it is not very important to have similar characters. For example, my best friend is very shy and does not like to talk to other people, but I am a very sociable person.

~~But th~~

But there are some advantages of having similar characters. That way, you can understand your friend's personality well and can maintain a good healthy relationship. Also you can secure your friendship and get through hardships together and gain success in your lives.

Is it better to have one best friend or to have lots of friends? In my scenario, it will be nice ~~to~~ to have many friends, but having a one best friend is also worth it.

In my life, I have ~~one~~ a very kind best friend and lots of other friends, who are good to me. Having lots of friends can bring you joy and it may also help you to understand how people's thoughts differ from one to another.

Having one best friend is more precious to me as I mentioned earlier, it will help you to get through hardships and gain success together. ~~as one~~
