Florence Nightingale

Florence Nightingale was born in 1820. Her parents gave her an excellent education, but two hundred years ago the daughters of rich parents didn't have careers. Their families expected them to [19] married and stay at home. But Florence wanted to be a nurse and [20] sick people. In 1854 she travelled to Turkey. At that time, Britain and some other countries were fighting a war against Russia. Florence worked very [21] to improve the care of injured soldiers in the hospital. She became [22] all over the world for her work there.

Florence started a school for nurses in 1864 and, for the first [23], being a nurse became a real job. She also understood that it was very important to [24] things clean in hospitals.

Florence died in 1910 at the age of ninety.
