Hi Jackie,

Well, here I am in Peru! Yes,

I (1) spent (spend)

a year in Lima as part of my university course.

I (2) felt (feel) so lucky because it's a fantastic opportunity. I (3) had (have) an apartment in the city centre with two other girls, and we (4) went (go) to classes on foot because it's very close to the university.

Here, the university courses (5) started (start) in April, which is the end of summer, and they (6) finish (finish) in February. I (7) attended (attend) classes Monday to Friday. But today is Saturday, so I (8) (not / study)

Instead, I (9) sat (sit) in the kitchen writing emails.

I (10) haven't (not / have) much free time in the week because this month we (11) work (do) a project, which

(12) means (mean) we have to do a lot of extra work in the evenings. At the moment, I (13) take (take) Spanish classes as well. What (14) (you / do) this year?

(15) (you / want) to come and visit me?

Write soon!

Love,

Sammy

Hi,

So, I read your e-mail and I have some great news to tell you. I can stay the 1st week with you. I have planned a trip to my grandparents' house in ^{the} 2nd week in August. So, the 2nd week will be difficult for me. It's okay we got the 1st week. I'll bring some snacks and games, ~~new~~ action movies stuff. And we'll be playing games with my ~~newest~~ new P55.

You said ~~there was~~ ^{is} the beach near the house. Oh I love the beach. We can play Volleyball together and spend the time on ~~the~~ sand. By the way, can we go to the gym in every evening. About Jack, we can get him a new, fancy couch.

Lots of Love,
Deneth

It was the trip of a lifetime. We (1) seted off (set off) from the first hostel early in the morning to walk the first stage on a path which went up and down mountains for about 25km. It was a beautiful day, the sun (2) was shining (shine) and the countryside (3) looked (look) beautiful. We went up a steep hill and soon we (4) arrived (arrive) at a small bridge over a river. The water (5) ran (run) fast and clean. It also (6) felt (feel) very cold because it came down from the snowy mountains above.

After about two hours, we (7) stoped (stop) for a rest and sat down. Then, I (8) noticed (notice) some dark clouds (9) coming (come) in from the north, so we decided to continue quickly. But we (10) were not walking (not walk) fast enough, and it (11) began (begin) raining. It (12) was raining (still rain) four hours later when we finally arrived at our destination, completely wet. It (13) doesn't matter (not matter) because we (14) had (have) dry clothes in our bags and we (15) felt (feel) amazing after completing our first day.

Digging into the past

Last year, Kate Marshall was given a very exciting opportunity – to help her father, who's a history lecturer, at a historical site! He was leading a team to dig up and explore the area.

When they arrived, though, the site wasn't quite what Kate had expected.

16 A So the first job was to remove it all and prepare the land for digging. Says Kate, 'Dad hadn't warned me I'd have to work so hard as soon as we got there!'

But when the site was completely cleared, the team found pieces of ancient pots on the ground. However, those weren't as exciting as everyone had thought. Kate's dad told them that the important pots were still under the ground. And because no-one had touched them for centuries, the team would learn far more about their history – but first they would have to dig deeper. Says Kate, 17 D But we all knew Dad was right!

The site was divided into small squares, with a leader for each square, who told everyone how to dig. 'That wasn't as easy as it sounded, either,' Kate reports. 'Instead of just digging great big holes, we all had to dig really carefully, and remove small amounts of soil each time. 18 C So it made sense.'

'My friends at home were really interested in what I was doing,' Kate explains. 'They kept texting me to ask what I'd found. 19 G But actually, we were looking for ordinary, everyday objects that could tell us about the people who'd lived in the area centuries ago.'

In the end, though, Kate wasn't disappointed by what she found. 'One day, when I was digging away, I found a stone with a strange shape. 20 H Someone had obviously made it hundreds of years ago, which meant it was really important. So Dad cleaned it up, and said it would go to the nearby museum. So I was pleased that at last, I'd found something interesting!'
